FLOWER TALES

"Flower Tales" are verses stitched into fabric with flowers, where purple, black, and khaki burst into a silent bloom amid the patterns.

Purple is like fingertips brushing velvet damp with night dew—cool and smooth. Black, feels like touching cracks on an old pottery basin. Khaki adding a touch of softness to the interplay of purple and black, like fingertips gliding over sun-warmed linen.

Pastel Bloom Nostalgia

The design centers on the classic Paisley pattern, integrating the sweet elements of the 1950s with the gentle texture of pink and yellow color matching to reconstruct retro aesthetics. It takes the pink and yellow system as the core, with light pink and goose yellow forming the main color tones.

The design of linear floral pattern draws inspiration from the dynamic rhythm of flowers growing in nature and the beauty of their outlines under light and shadow.

Taking blue, white, and yellow as the basic main colors, it showcases the unique charm of flowers through a minimalist linear language.

• • • ELEMENTARY • • •

With minimalist geometry as its skeleton, the work builds a strongly modern visual composition through clean lines and distinct outlines. Taking Masaoko Wakayama's signature soft color palettes as its "flesh and blood," it retains the crisp texture of modern design while infusing humanistic warmth through gentle hues—allowing viewers to feel the power of calm and healing within its simple visual symbols.

Rest In The Garden

This collection is inspired by Morris-style patterns, blending pastoral poetry with fabric design to celebrate nature. Flowers are reimagined with rounded petals that flow into coiled scrolls, forming smooth curves. Leaf veins extend naturally, while lively background patterns add energy to the design.

FLOWER SHADOW YEARS

Flower shadows are crumpled by time: within the brown petal shadows hide khaki light spots, like an out-of-focus cluster of flowers in an old photograph; over the khaki leaf patterns seep deep brown blurs, just as the setting sun, filtering through flower branches, casts fragmented shadows on the brick ground—like overlapping memories in the flow of years, vague yet tender.

Twilight Flower Language

The "Twilight Flower Language" series of patterns features a deep brown base color, creating a calm and serene atmosphere like twilight. It selects various floral elements and presents them in soft tones such as light beige and camel, outlining delicate contours. The flowers come in different shapes, either in full bloom or in bud, with naturally spreading leaves. Small scattered flowers and slender branches are added to build a richly layered floral world.

TOUCH COLOR

This set of patterns takes colors as its warp and weft, using texture as a bridge for touch, turning each hue into a tangible emotion: the calm of black, the crispness of blue, the depth of brown, the passion of red, the tenderness of pink, the brightness of yellow. Amid the interlacing flowers and leaves, they weave a touchable color dream.
